Action or Discussion Items:

Discussion

Background:

In response to the increase in domestic and internationally-inspired violent extremism cases, the California Governor's Office of Emergency Services (Cal OES) established a Preventing Violent Extremism (PVE) Program in March 2017. The agency's approach aims to support California's communities in their efforts to build and enhance locally-led violence prevention and intervention programs.

Cal OES began supporting locally-led programs by enhancing resources in order to fill gaps in community needs in May 2018. Among other activities, Cal OES launched an interactive website for stakeholders to share best practices, knowledge, program models, and challenges. This website hosts a virtual training to assist interested communities in building program frameworks to enhance local resiliency against all forms of violence. Additionally, Cal OES will fund 5 non-profit pilot projects that support the PVE objectives outlined in California's Homeland Security Strategy.

Discussion:

Cal OES intends to report on the State's commitment to prevent violent extremism in California. This presentation will also review the State PVE Program's implementation process and provide insight on programmatic plans for the future.

Next Steps:

By December 2018, Cal OES plans to identify two pilot jurisdictions to launch the State's PEACE Plan Initiative. Cal OES intends to gauge the Bay Area UASI member's interest in collaborating with the State on this project and build a locally led violence prevention or intervention program.

Discussion

Background:

The UASI Technical Assistance (TA) Program was kicked off at the March 2018 Approval Authority meeting. The program was introduced to city and county leadership in April and to the UASI regional workgroup meetings in May. Also, the Alameda County Emergency Managers Association hosted a TA Program presentation in June.

Discussion:

The TA Program has been well received by Bay Area jurisdictions. In the past five months, the program team has completed five sessions and three are in the planning phase. (see Appx 7A). Program evaluations show high ratings and positive testimonials - the California Emergency Services Association selected the TA Program to be showcased as one of their 2018 conference presentations.

Next Steps:

Feedback from our regional stakeholders has assisted the Management Team to expand the TA program to include the following:

- Program goals involving the areas of cyber resiliency and situational awareness.
- Fiscal best practices regarding grants management.
- An automated access using the WebGrants FY19 proposal submission process

Additional capability building tools for use in the TA program are being developed and the management team will continue to schedule, complete customized coordination, deliver and evaluate TA sessions.

The UASI Management Team looks forward to hearing your feedback on the TA Program. We will come back to you with a program update in Spring 2019.
